Details about the Role

Ali, a young man with a bachelor's degree in Arabic, is unable to afford marriage or support his elderly parents. Frustrated by his situation, he believes that migrating is his only path to a better life, requiring a significant sum of money—something he can only obtain if his father sells their land. After careful consideration, Ali decides to delay his plans for migration and instead works on his family's land. A brief visit to his village brings unexpected surprises, including the success of his small business and an unforeseen love story. Through this journey, Ali realizes that the love of his homeland is invaluable, and with determination and effort, anything is possible.

Real Name

Mohamed Khouyi

Details about the Role

Hajj Al-Moti, Ali's father, had long nurtured the hope that his son would assist him in the hard work of plowing the land and harvesting the tomatoes, relying on Ali to share the burden of responsibility. However, his expectations were met with disappointment as he observed Ali's reckless behavior and apparent lack of responsibility, which left him feeling let down by the son he had counted on to help sustain the family and maintain the land they depended on for their livelihood.

Name in the series

Ali's Mother

Nezha Badr

Details about the Role

Ali's mother, a modest and kind-hearted woman, had always dreamed that her son would achieve great success and eventually be in a position to offer support and assistance to Hajj Al-Maati's mother, believing this would bring honor to the family and fulfill a long-held aspiration. However, her hopes were shattered when her son's choices and actions failed to meet her expectations, leaving her with a deep sense of disappointment and sorrow over the unfulfilled vision she had for both her son and the family.
